

Handmade Silver, Gold and Malachite Roman-Style Ring

£125

Description

A striking handmade silver and gold ring, designed in the Roman style and centred on a richly coloured oval malachite. Substantial in weight and bold in scale, the ring draws inspiration from the enduring elegance of ancient jewellery while retaining the individuality and tactile appeal of hand-crafted work.

The oval malachite is the focus of the design, its naturally formed bands of green creating a surface of exceptional depth and movement. Each stone is unique: its varied tones, from deep forest green to brighter mineral shades, give the ring a distinctive presence and make it especially compelling when viewed in changing light. The gold detailing provides a warm contrast to the cool lustre of the silver, framing the stone and adding a luxurious note to the composition.

Its confident silhouette and classical inspiration recall ancient Roman signet rings and personal ornaments, in which richly coloured hardstones were prized for both their beauty and symbolic associations. The weight and hand-finished character of the mount give this example a reassuring sense of quality, making it a statement piece that remains eminently wearable.

An unusual and characterful ring for collectors of handmade jewellery, lovers of classical design, or anyone seeking a substantial gem-set piece with colour, texture, and presence.
