

Huge 19th century toasting glasses

£125

Description

A pair of huge early 19th century toasting glasses on hand cut stems, circa 1830.

Toasting glasses are specially designed stemware used during celebratory occasions to raise a toast. Often slender and elegant, these glasses enhance the experience of drinking champagne, wine, or spirits. Traditionally associated with weddings, anniversaries, and festive gatherings, toasting glasses symbolise goodwill, unity, and shared joy among participants.
