Description

A striking necklace composed of large natural coral barrel beads, finished with an 18ct yellow gold clasp. Bold in scale and beautifully tactile, it celebrates the distinctive warmth and organic character of coral, with each bead displaying subtle variations in tone, surface, and form.

The generously proportioned barrel-shaped beads create a confident, sculptural silhouette around the neck. Their gently rounded profiles are arranged to show the natural beauty of the material, from saturated coral tones to softer nuances of colour, while the polished 18ct yellow gold clasp provides a rich and elegant finishing detail.

Coral jewellery has been admired for centuries for its intense colour and natural individuality. Unlike manufactured gemstones, coral carries subtle irregularities and variations that ensure each necklace has its own character. Here, the substantial beads and clean, unfussy design allow the material to take centre stage, resulting in a piece that feels both timeless and wonderfully expressive.

Equally effective worn as a statement necklace or displayed as part of a jewellery collection, this is a handsome and versatile jewel with enduring appeal. It would make a refined addition to a collection of natural-material jewellery, vintage coral, or bold gold-mounted accessories.
